

ISSUE 3

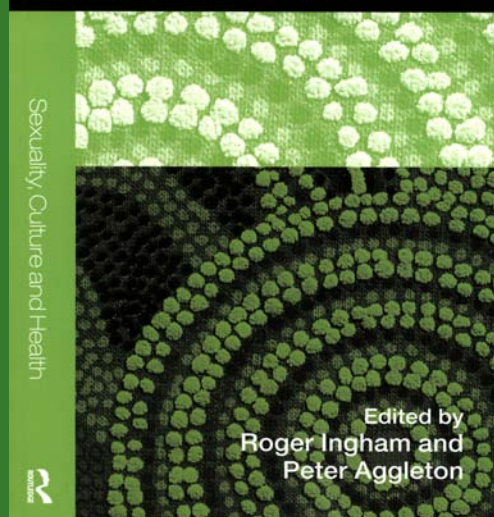

Safe Passages to Adulthood

www.safe passages.soton.ac.uk

Enabling young people to improve their sexual and reproductive health

PROMOTING YOUNG PEOPLE'S SEXUAL HEALTH

International perspectives

The six-year, UK Department for International Development (DfID) funded research programme - Safe Passages to Adulthood - has recently come to an end.

See: www.safe passages.soton.ac.uk/ for further details, including free resources

To celebrate the completion of the Safe Passages to Adulthood research programme, two of the directors of the project, Roger Ingham and Peter Aggleton have edited a collection of key writings by the researchers involved in the work.

Promoting Young People's Sexual Health: International Perspectives
Roger Ingham and Peter Aggleton (editors)
Routledge, 2006

Chapters cover

Understanding young people and sexual health

- Uses and abuses of surveys on the sexual behaviour of young people
- Young people and condom use; findings from qualitative studies
- The importance of context in seeking to understand and promote sexual health
- Gender, sexual behaviour and vulnerability among young people

Groups who are more vulnerable to poor sexual health

- Meeting the sexual health needs of young people living on the street
- Young people's same-sex relationships, sexual health and well-being
- Sexual violence and young people's sexual health in developing countries: intersections
- For love or money: the role of exchange in young people's sexual relationships

Approaches to improving youth sexual and reproductive health

- Using evaluation to improve the sexual health of young people
- Sexual health communication: letting young people have their say
- Young people and sex and relationships education
- Research and policy in young people's sexual health

This newly published collection of writings on young people and sexual and reproductive health will be of interest to policy-makers, practitioners, researchers, teachers and students living and working across the world.

Available for purchase at:
www.routledge.com or www.amazon.co.uk

This book is published as part of the Routledge Culture, Sexuality and Health series.

Other titles include:

Peter Aggleton, Andrew Ball and Purnima Mane (editors)
Sex, Drugs and Young People: International Perspectives
Routledge, 2006

Richard Parker and Peter Aggleton
Culture, Society and Sexuality
Routledge, 2007