

Online course on TARSHI's Comprehensive Sexuality Education for Teachers and Educators

Calling for applications for Exclusive Moderated Course, 2023

Why a course on CSE?

In our over 27 years of experience working on sexuality related issues, we have found that teachers and educators often find it challenging to discuss sexuality related issues in classrooms and school settings. This is especially so given they have little training, preparation or scope to explore their own doubts and feelings about gender, sex, sexuality.

This eLearning course aims to fill this gap created by the lack of teacher training on CSE and to equip educators with skills to engage with sexual and reproductive health issues within schools and institutions. It provides exposure to various concepts such as CSE, sexuality, gender and on topics such as body image, technology and its influence on young people, harassment of teachers and students, etc., and provides a space for dialogue, self-reflection and value clarification. The course is adapted from The Orange Book, a workbook developed by TARSHI in 2010, aimed at helping teachers provide CSE with confidence and ease.

What methodologies does the eLearning course use?

The eLearning course is in English, and incorporates dynamic exercises and external resources such as videos, relevant eMagazine and online newspaper articles, scholarly and academic reports combined with TARSHI's content. Real life stories, case studies, academic articles and multimedia resources have been woven into core content to address sensitive and challenging issues in inventive and personalised ways.

Who is this course for?

This course is especially designed for teachers, academics, educators, and other professionals working with schools, colleges, institutions and universities. Having said this, the course is open for anyone who engages with sexuality related issues, both at professional or personal levels.

Advantages of an 'online' course

Being an online course, it is suited to distance learning and is flexible. It can be accessed from anywhere, anytime with an internet connection, which makes it a convenient and cost-effective learning tool.
